

Marwari

ABOUT

The Marwari horse is native to the Marwar region of India. Marwaris are an extremely sturdy breed, able to take thirst and heat in stride because of their thin skin. They are hardy enough to subsist on the small rations available in their desert environment, and rarely need shoes.

WEIGHT: 750-1,000 pounds

HEIGHT: 14 hands to 15.2 hands

BODY TYPE: Inward curved ears with the tips sometime touching; compact, sturdy body; long limbs which keep the horse's underside away from the scorching sand of the desert